Selected List of Books

set aside for

YOUNGER READERS

at the Central Library

and Branches

of the

Boston Public Library

Revised to February, 1897.

2 cop.
B. 86.
May 1, 1894.

The following list contains the titles of a collection of books which has been placed on open shelves in the Central Library. An identical collection is also placed in each Branch. The list therefore holds good for all the sets both as respects titles and shelf-numbers. These books may be handled directly by the readers and may be drawn for home use when properly charged.

The collection is not offered as a model of its kind, nor is it to be regarded as representative literature for Young People; least of all should it be taken as a complete list of what the Library contains for this class of readers. It is simply a selection of such interesting and attractive, possibly of stimulating and suggestive works of adventure, travel, history, biography, and of the imagination as may be found both at the Central Library and at each of the Branches, and may be handled without the intervention of an attendant.
